Q: Dynamically change an image on click There are lots of answers here to dynamically change images but I have a very special situation. I have several divs on a page, with multiple different image inside each div. The divs contain a text, and are stylized with CSS so that the images move around. What I need is that when I click on one of the divs, the image inside is replaced by another image. I can then continue to click on this div to see the other images. How can I do this? A: This would be relatively easy to implement using jQuery. You could do it like this: `$(".moveable-div").on("click", function(e){ var $div = $(this); $div.find(".image-inside").attr("src", ""); }); .moveable-div{ padding:30px; text-align: center; cursor: pointer; } .image-inside{ background: #fff; padding:0px 30px; -webkit-transition: all 0.5s; -moz-transition: all 0.5s; -o-transition: all 0.5`
